

ISLAND BEST PRACTICE

Professional Development
CPD Seminar Programme

ISLEFACT

OVERVIEW

Global geopolitical tensions and world events have been of real concern for some time. However, the short, medium and long-term consequences of such trends in addition to the potential implications arising from US foreign and trade policy are now particularly challenging.

This very unstable situation is already having economic, social, and environmental consequences on all island jurisdictions worldwide and those organisations operating within these communities.

To benefit from the monitoring and analysing of these global and regional trends and their associated island concerns, professional development (CPD) accredited seminars are now available to individual organisations based initially in Jersey, Guernsey, or Isle of Man.

Key personnel within the organisation who have strategic and operational management responsibilities will benefit most from the seminar programme and the overall objectives are as follows:

- Enhancing awareness of the importance of external factors in determining overall internal strategy, operational direction, and risk assessment.
- Highlighting potential economic, social and environmental impact scenarios thus enabling steps to be taken to achieve cost efficiencies/savings.
- ◆ Identifying and addressing where internal weaknesses may be apparent in the organisation in terms of a lack of key data and information.

SEMINAR 1 - ISLAND RESILIENCE (IMPACTS & RISKS)

KEY OUTCOMES

Resilience is a critical element in an island's economic life cycle. However, external events and conditions are impacting more and more on the direction island communities are having to take and how island-based organisations need to plan ahead.

Therefore, the key outcomes of this CPD accredited Seminar are to:

- Understand the risks and impacts of latest global conditions on islands and business decision-making,
- Recognise the wide range of island resilience and vulnerability factors and the importance of each in the sustainable development of the community and to the local business environment,
- Realise the weaknesses now of Gross Domestic Product (GDP) as a measure of island economic development and proposals to move away from this measure, and
- Appreciate the current strategic focus of island governments in the context of resilience and their position on the economic life cycle.

SEMINAR FORMAT (Half Day)

Part 1

A PowerPoint presentation will be given and comprise:

- Latest global trends and events currently and/or potentially of significance to island communities and organisations,
- The identification and measurement of how resilient or vulnerable islands currently are and the real challenges they face in an economic, social and environmental context,

- What steps may need to be taken to rationalise economic measures such as GDP, and
- The current strategic focus of island governments and how this impacts on island-based organisations.

Part 2

Following a short break, an interactive discussion session will then take place on the above issues when client concerns over their own strategic and operational thinking and direction will also be considered in depth.

FEEDBACK

It is essential that clients are able to provide qualitative feedback at all times. Therefore, the views and opinions of those attending this Seminar will be sought once the event has taken place.

ATTENDANCE

Seminar attendance would be determined by the client organisation booking the event which would normally be held in-house at the client's premises.

Each attendee would receive a certificate of attendance and be able to register three CPD credit hours (points).

SEMINAR 2 - SINGLE ECONOMIC SECTOR DEPENDENCY (ISLAND CHALLENGES & OPTIONS)

KEY OUTCOMES

Islands globally are increasingly dependent upon a single economic sector. However, to diversify the economy is ever harder to achieve which only heightens the vulnerability of the island concerned.

Therefore, the key outcomes of this CPD accredited Seminar are to:

- Register the importance of monitoring external trends in relation to long-term island economic sustainability and success,
- Appreciate how important contingency planning is for island-based businesses located in an island jurisdiction primarily dependent upon one economic sector, such as financial services or tourism, and
- Stimulate ideas on how the private sector can work with the public and third sectors in achieving a sustainable and diverse island economy.

SEMINAR FORMAT (Half Day)

Part 1

A PowerPoint presentation will be given and comprise:

- Relevant global factors of key importance to island economies,
- Island constraints impacting on economic development and diversity,
- Islands primarily dependent upon one economic sector such as 'Financial Services' or 'Tourism' and what are the weaknesses and threats,

- Possible options for the long-term implementation of an island economic diversification strategy, and
- Key issues to address in the determination of organisational strategic planning.

Part 2

Following a short break, an interactive discussion session will then take place on the above issues when client concerns over their own strategic and operational thinking and direction will also be considered in depth.

FEEDBACK

It is essential that clients are able to provide qualitative feedback at all times. Therefore, the views and opinions of those attending this Seminar will be sought once the event has taken place.

ATTENDANCE

Seminar attendance would be determined by the client organisation booking the event which would normally be held in-house at the client's premises.

CHRIS BROCK

ANGUS KEMP is a qualified Chartered Accountant and has been deeply involved in island accounting, financial planning, and training issues for over thirty years.

He is not only Managing Director of an accountancy practice in Guernsey but is retained as a Consultant Lecturer at the GTA University Centre and as an Examiner for the Chartered Governance Institute in London.

Many of Angus' clients are wholly dependent upon the economic success of an island and, therefore, he has to be very conscious of the impact that any changes to an island's legislative and economic framework can have in the short, medium, and long-term.

Angus' academic credentials include Master's degrees in Business Administration, Economics and Politics, and Education. He also holds a Postgraduate Certificate in Accountancy together with a Teaching Certificate.
